

General

The following terms and conditions shall apply to all our goods and services. Other terms and conditions shall only be binding on us if we have recognised them in writing. Separate supplementary service terms and conditions shall apply for assembly and repair work. As a supplement, our separate usage agreements for "electronic documentation" shall apply for software even if this software is an integral element of a product supplied by us.

I. Offer and Conclusion of Contract

1. Our offers are subject to change at any time. Dimensions, packed measurements, weights, diagrams, simulation results and drawings shall only be binding for the model if this has been expressly confirmed in writing.
2. We shall retain ownership rights and copyrights to drawings and other documents. They must not be passed on to third parties nor may access to them be allowed in any other way.
3. Orders based on one of our offers shall constitute an offer by the party dispatching it and shall only result in a contract if it is confirmed by us in writing. Every supplement or amendment to agreements made at the wish of the party ordering will require our confirmation in writing in order it to be effective.

II. Prices

1. Provided that nothing has been agreed to the contrary, the invoice shall be raised in Euro on the basis of the prices valid at the time of delivery.
2. Provided that no notes have been made to the contrary in the offer, the prices for goods and services shall be ex works, excluding packaging, transport, insurance, assembly and start-up of the party ordering plus the rate of legal turnover tax at the time of delivery.

III. Delivery

1. Delivery periods shall only be binding in those cases in which they have been agreed in writing. In cases of doubt the delivery periods stated in the order confirmation shall apply. The delivery period shall commence to run when the contract is signed, however, not prior to the fulfilment of existing duties of co-operation the party ordering may have, in particular the furnishing of documents, provision of materials, approvals, clearances to be obtained by the party ordering and if necessary, agreed down payments or after a letter of credit has been opened.
2. The agreed deadlines shall also apply as having been complied with when notification has been made that the products are ready for dispatch, if the goods are not delivered in due course through no fault of ours, or if it has not been possible to render the services on time.
3. If the non-compliance with delivery periods is attributable to force majeure and/or other disruptions for which we are not to blame, e.g. war, terrorist attacks, fire, cyber-attacks, import and export restrictions, lack of means of transport, untimely or improper self-supply, restriction of energy consumption, environmental disasters, pandemic situations, labour disputes, including those affecting our suppliers, the agreed delivery periods shall be extended accordingly. This shall also apply in those cases in which the disruptions occur at a point in time at which we are in default.
4. In the event of culpable non-compliance with a binding delivery period for reasons other than named in number III 3, the party ordering can withdraw from the contract following the expiry of an appropriate period of time set in writing.
5. Any other rights the party ordering may have, in particular compensation for damages, shall be ruled out as stated in number VII.
6. If dispatch is delayed at the wish of the party ordering, we shall consequently be entitled, beginning one month from notification that the goods are ready for dispatch, to invoice the actual costs incurred by storage or 1% of the invoiced amount for every month started (subject to the proof that the costs incurred have been much less). After an appropriate period has expired to no avail, we shall, over and above this, reserve the right to withdraw from the contract. The costs incurred by us in doing so shall be invoiced to the party ordering.
7. Part deliveries and invoices for part deliveries shall be allowed.

IV. Transfer of risk; Dispatch

1. The delivery shall be ex-works, provided nothing else has been expressly agreed.
2. If the goods are dispatched to a different place at the request of the party ordering, the method of dispatch shall be left to our discretion if nothing to the contrary has been specified by the party ordering. A transit insurance policy shall only be taken out at the instruction and cost of the party ordering.
3. Unless included by liability for defective parts, appropriate dispatch and packing costs plus the remuneration of the work performed by us shall be invoiced. Return packages to us as well as packages containing repair work shall have to be at the expense of the party ordering as a matter of principle – unless we are liable for a defect.
4. If dispatch is delayed as a result of circumstances for which we are not to blame, the risk shall be transferred to the party ordering on the day it is notified that the goods are ready for dispatch.

V. Warranty

1. Claims for defects shall become time-barred after 12 months. The period in which a claim under warranty may be made shall begin to run when the goods are handed over or when notification is made that the goods are in our works ready for dispatch.
2. If there should be a defect within the period covered by warranty, the cause of which already existed at the point in time at which risk was passed over, we can, at our choice, either remedy the defect as subsequent fulfilment or supply fault-free goods. The product about which a complaint has been made is to be sent in to us for repair. The cheapest method of sending in the product to us and back out to the party ordering at the original delivery address in Germany for the products agreed by the party ordering shall be at our expense, provided that the complaint turns out to be justified. The defect shall be remedied either by exchanging the goods or by repairing the faulty products at our premises. Defects will only be remedied at the location where they are mounted as part of special agreements in accordance with our valid terms and conditions of service.
3. Our warranty obligation shall expire if the product is modified by a third party or if parts from other parties are installed or used, unless the defect is not in causal connection with the modifications, as well as if regulations for dispatch, packaging, installation, treatment, use or maintenance are not obeyed, or if faulty assembly or start-up by the party ordering or third party are extant.
4. Natural wear and tear, and changes in materials caused with the passage of time (for gaskets and seals in particular), and damage as a result of improper handling shall not be covered by the warranty. In particular, we shall not be liable for changes in the condition or the method of operation of our products as a result of improper storage or unsuitable machinery materials as well as climatic or other effects. The warranty shall not cover defects attributable to design faults or the choice of inappropriate materials, provided that the party ordering has specified the design or material in spite of us drawing its attention to the unsuitability of them in advance. We shall not assume any liability for parts furnished by the party ordering.
5. The party placing the order has to allow us or a third party responsible for the warranty the time and opportunity required to carry out the work under warranty. Except in cases prescribed by § 637 of the (German) Civil Code, [BGB], it shall only be entitled to carry out such work itself with our written consent. The expenditure required to render subsequent fulfilment shall be borne by us within limits and must be in suitable proportion to the value of the goods in perfect condition, the importance of the defect and / or the option existing for rendering subsequent fulfilment by other means; any costs over and above this shall be borne by the party ordering.
6. The period covered by warranty shall be stopped for the period of time necessary for subsequent fulfilment. It will not start from the beginning.
7. If the subsequent fulfilment should fail, the party ordering can withdraw from the contract or reduce the remuneration.
8. Rights over and above this based on defects – in particular contractual or non-contractual claims to compensation for damages which have not been sustained on the goods themselves – are excluded in the extent defined in number VII.
9. If a complaint about a defect should turn out to be unjustified, we shall consequently be entitled to invoice the party ordering for all expenditure we incur as a result.
10. The terms and conditions of number V shall apply accordingly for defects in title not based on the breach of third party property rights.
11. § 377 German Commercial Code (HGB) shall apply.

VI. Property Rights

1. For claims arising from the breach of property rights and copyrights, we shall only be liable in those cases in which the property right or copyright is not owned by the party ordering and / or a company in which it holds or held a majority of the capital or which belongs or belonged to him as a result of him holding a majority of the votes, and the party ordering notifies us straight away of risks of breach becoming known and claimed cases of breach and hands over to us at our request – as far as possible – the management of legal disputes (also those conducted out of court) and for property rights at least one property right from the genre of property rights has been published either by the European Patent Office, or by one of the following states: the Federal Republic of Germany, France, Great Britain or USA.

Provided that nothing has been decided to the contrary in these terms and conditions of delivery, we shall be liable for compensation for damages and the replacement of the alleged expenditure within the meaning of § 284 BGB (hereinafter known as "compensation for damages") on account of breach of contractual or non-contractual duties only in cases in which our legal representatives or assistants are guilty of intent or gross negligence, loss of life, personal injury or damage of health, as a result of taking over a guarantee, or a procurement risk, the breach of significant contractual duties, as a result of compulsory liability in accordance with the (German) Product Liability Act or other compulsory liability.
